FIRST CONTACT
WORK OF YEAR

Coach Wynne Issues Call for All Eligible Students to Report for Practice At Once

SEVERAL REGULARS MISSING FROM TEAM
Squad Will Be Strengthened At Conclusion of Basketball Season

Although the first year men still show a deficiency in the knowledge of fundamentals, Coach Wynne planned to put the 44 candidates who reported for spring football practice last week through their first scrimmage in this afternoon's practice session.

Last week's work-outs went off smoother than was previously expected and if the present good weather prevails much is expected to be accomplished in the next six or seven weeks.

Only 33 players came out for the opening of the spring training last Thursday, and since then only six more candidates have announced their intentions of coming out for the squad. This is not nearly as many as had been expected to report, and Coach Wynne wishes that it be known that all eligible students who wish to come out for the team will receive all possible attention from the coaching staff.

Several members of last year's varsity and freshmen squads are playing on the basketball teams and will not be available until the basketball season has ended. These men are expected to strengthen the squad when they report sometime early in March.

Those who have reported so far are: Garland, Lutz, Kennedy, E. Phillips, R. Phillips, Linden, Brown, Snyder, Murphy, Kaylor, Hinkle, Parda, Ramsey, Bosse, Stafford, D. Davis, Willett, Simpson, Hewling, Karnes, Kinkaid, V. Robinson, Skaggs, Wadlington, Jackowski, Holland, Spickard, Marker, Lackman, Hall, Shepard, Ellington, Snider, Kurachek, Tognocchi, Vires, Bailey, Byrnes, Fritz, Coleman, Alcorn, Nicholas, Boies, and T. Robinson.

The definite date of publication will be announced Friday.

Beginning with this issue of the "Sour Mash," a national advertising firm will conduct a "Best Gag of the Month" contest, for which prizes will be offered.

Biological Didge, cartoons, gags, the Mash Barrel, Personal Files, and other regular departments will be included.

DR. CLARK REVIEWS
WORKS OF LINCOLN

Mary Todd Lincoln, President Lincoln's wife, was responsible in large measure for his greatness because she continually spurred him on to greater heights, Dr. Thomas D. Clark of the University's department of history, told members of the Optimist club Friday at their weekly luncheon meeting at the Lafayette hotel.

Expressing great admiration for President Lincoln, Dr. Clark commented on the fact that two masterpieces of the English language, the Gettysburg Address and Lincoln's second inaugural address, were composed by a man who came from a home that had little time for education. He also related many anecdotes of Lincoln's life.

"Invitation To A Murder"
Opens For Guignol Run

By CHADWICHE BRIDGEWAY

"Invitation to a Murder" is a pretty difficult vehicle to effectively put on the stage, even for such stout and dauntless show people as those who spend their time at the Guignol theatre, and who, from time to time, supply this region with first-rate drama.

In any play in which murder has been done and in which the plot narrows down to an attempt to disclose the identity of the murderer, timing is a requisite, especially in the Big Scene. Unfortunately, Guignol's "Invitation to a Murder" lacks this ingredient to a certain degree, but the lack of it does not hamper the play very much.

It does not hamper it because the piece is earnestly done. The players, with but one or two exceptions, have been marvellously cast. The general effect is sharp and realistic, and if the details seem at times somewhat blurred and superfluous, it is the fault of the playwright and not of the players.

Walden Greenwell is superbly cast as the doctor-tool of the powerful Lorinda Channing. Although he seems to us to be a bit unintelligible at times, his stage manner is generally excellent, his facial expressions plastic enough to take in the wide range from greed to terror and back again.

As the ruler of the Channing family, Lorinda, Mary Lyons, gets just about all out of the part that is possible. Good diction, so necessary to such a role, is hers, and she makes the most of it. Her presence on the stage is, from the first, mysterious, eerie, faintly suggestive of the tomb from whence she rises.

L. Cass Robinson heads the remaining list of players. He turns in his usual good performance as Horatio Channing, one of the heirs-to-be of the Channing fortunes.

Frank Fowler will be welcomed back from California. He has already taken up his duties as advisory director, filled so ably during his absence by Lolo Robinson, Julian Lefler, and the others.

The stage, as is usually the case with Guignol stages, is perfectly handled, and the properties are excellent. Playing time is one hour and 35 minutes, and nothing else that could be said could keep murder mystery addicts away.

University Team
Debates Marquette

Argue to Non-decision Roosevelt's Proposed Supreme Court Change

The University debating team, coached by Prof. W. R. Sutherland, engaged members of the Marquette University team in a non-decision and a split-team debate in McVey hall Friday.

Non-decision debating was on the subject, "Resolved: That Congress Should Enact Laws to Provide for Maximum Hours and Minimum Wages for Labor in Industry." The Marquette team, composed of Chester Nibler and Robert Jones, took the affirmative side, while the University team, represented by Edwin S. Campbell and John L. Davis, juniors in the College of Law, spoke for the University.

The split-team debate was on the subject, "Resolved: That This House Approves President Roosevelt's Proposed Changes in the Federal Judiciary." George Feskoe, University senior, and Chester Nibler, Marquette, took the affirmative side, while Campbell Miller, University, and Robert Jones, Marquette, upheld the negative in this debate.

By ALICE WOOD BAILEY

Thousands loaf in pool rooms, hotel lobbies, depots, ten-cent stores and on park benches, in every section of the country, but our own University post office is a haven for the scores of idling students who daily make it their refuge from the classroom. At all times of the day, they may be seen, slumped on their backbones, loitering in the ecstasy of their ease.

There are those who read, those who sleep, those who gossip, those who whistle at passing coeds, and then those who simply sit; but the lot of them may be divided into two distinct classes called the casual and chronic loafers.

The chronic loafers begin to

Robert Crawford
Charms Audience
At Vesper Service

Entertaining Baritone Gives Excellent Selection of Numbers

By DAVE SALVENS

Rendering a series of numbers whose charm lay not alone in the excellent way in which they were sung but in the fact that they were short, not too heavy, and of the type that everyone enjoys, Robert Crawford, baritone, presented the weekly vesper program Sunday afternoon in Memorial hall. He was accompanied by John Shelby Richardson.

Mr. Crawford's program consisted of four groups, two of which were sung in English and two in French. With the exception of the third group, which consisted of one number, "Vision Fugitive" from "Hérodiade," by Massenet, all of the numbers were of a light vein and received enthusiastic applause from the audience. The nature of the numbers combined with the personality of the singer put the program on a somewhat informal basis and thus made it more enjoyable.

One could hardly place one number of the program as more outstanding than the other, but there were a few which, by the applause of those present, seemed to be the most enjoyed. These included "Deux histoires pour enfants," by Stravinsky, consisting of two Russian folk songs sung in French, "The Company Sergeant Major," by Sandercock, "The Pipes O'Gordon's Men," by Hammond, and the final number, "The Green Eyed Dragon," by Charles. Mr. Crawford sang two encores, "Shoes" and a special arrangement by David Guyon of an English song, "What'll We Do With a Drunken Sailor?"

Ushers for the concert were Richard Butler and Roger Brown, representing Omicron Delta Kappa. Next Sunday's vesper concert will be given by the University men's glee club with Catherine Toomay, mezzo-soprano, as guest soloist.

Very often these individuals recline from hour to hour, seemingly unconscious of a class bell and with little indication of any intention to move. On up until the noon hour, these habitual attenders sit, some their faces are hidden by the college paper, others asleep, with the discarded publication at their feet among cast-off apple cores and cigarette butts.

Then there is the casual type of idler. These persons only stop in the post office long enough to bum a cigarette or to gather the latest gossip. (The crowd thickens at this time and it is now safe for a modest coed to pass through without at-

First College Nite

Kernel Inaugurated Affair Meets with Approval of Students

Approximately 500 University students were on hand for the first College Night, sponsored by The Kernel and held at the Kentucky theatre Friday night.

Features of the program included songs led by cheerleader McDowell, singing of "On, On, U. of K." and a series of pictures taken at the Kentucky-Washington and Lee game a few years ago, showing band formations, outstanding plays, and shots of "Fuzzy," the wildcat mascot.

The University band has been invited to give some special numbers at this week's College Night, which will be the second in the series, and more short subjects will be featured this week. Those in charge of the affair expressed satisfaction at the large number present and at the success of the first program.

Under the College Night plan, a special coupon is printed each Friday in The Kernel, which, when presented at the ticket window, entitles the student to admission for the regular matinee price instead of the evening price. Coupons must be presented before 8 p. m. for this to be in effect.

'CATS ON COUNT

Rumpmen's Attempt to Hold Ball Proves Fatal When Tennessee Scores To Win 26-24

By MARVIN N. GAY

An unsuccessful attempt of Kentucky's Wildcats to "freeze" the ball in the waning minutes of the game led to their defeat by Tennessee's basketball team 26 to 24 in a Southeastern Conference struggle played before 3,500 cheering fans at Knoxville, Saturday night.

The victory avenged a previous 43 to 26 trouncing that the Rumpmen had handed the Volunteers earlier in the season.

Both teams played slow and cautious ball throughout the first half which ended with Coach Guillon's Vols leading 14 to 12.

The Wildcats came back with a rush in the last period and gradually pulled away from the Tennessee five. With six minutes remaining in the game, the Wildcats apparently had the game won as they led 24 to 18. It was at this point that Kentucky elected to play safe by freezing the ball.

Marshall and Rice then collaborated to cut the 'Cat lead to 24 to 20 as they sank fouls called on Donohue and Opper. Rice then proceeded to score three more points, sinking a long heave and making a gratis throw called on Hodge.

With three minutes remaining and Kentucky leading 24 to 23, Marshall broke into the clear and made a loop to win the game. Rice ended the scoring by making good on Walker's foul just before the final whistle blasted Kentucky's last chance of victory.

In the final six minutes, the Vols, enlivened by 8 points while holding the Kentucky cage team scoreless. Referee Chest called 26 fouls, 16 on Kentucky and 10 on Tennessee. Thompson, Wildcat center, was inserted in the lineup in the second half, but fouled out after playing only eight minutes.

The summary:

Kentucky (24)	FG	FT	TP
Opper f	1	1	3
Hagan f	1	2	4
Carlisle f	1	1	5
Thompson f	1	1	1
Walker c	1	0	3

Johnson g	3	1	7

Foul shots missed: Kentucky—Hagan and Hodge; Tennessee—Marshall, Fisher, Johnson, and Rice 2.
Personal fouls: Kentucky—Opper 2, Hagan 2, Carlisle 2, Thompson 4, Walker, Hodge 3, and Donohue 2; Tennessee—Marshall 3, Putnam, Fisher, Johnson 3, and Rice 2.

Officials Attribute New High
Mark to Additional
N. Y. A. Assistance

An all-time high spring semester registration record was set yesterday afternoon when 3,265 students had enrolled for this term's work at 4 o'clock officials in the registrar's office announced. The previous record was 3,169, which was set in the spring of the 1930-31 school year.

The 1931 record was exceeded Saturday afternoon, and last day registrations swelled the total to the new high mark.

This semester's enrollment is only 191 short of the all-time record of any semester, which is 3,456, the total recorded during the first semester of this school year.

Registrars on officials had not expected a record or near-record enrollment this term because of the effect of the flood upon approximately one-fourth of the territory from which the University normally draws students.

Efforts of the National Youth Administration in extending aid to flood area students and the part payment tuition plan initiated last year, which enables students to pay their tuition over a period of time, were measures which helped effect the total enrollment, it was said.

AN APPEAL: HELL WEEK

Our appeal of last week to the separate fraternities and to the Administration concerning hell week seems so far to have gone unheeded. There is yet another agency, however, to which we can carry our message of mercy.

The Inter-fraternity Council is composed of a representative of each Greek-letter society on the campus. It meets regularly to discuss and enact bills which are presumed to be for the utmost good of each house and for the system as a whole. Now, this organization has the power to declare an end to hell week, to prohibit it from the campus, and it has the power to suspend member fraternities which do not cooperate to the fullest extent.

Our appeal, therefore, goes to the Inter-fraternity Council. This group should realize that unless the ancient custom is outlawed, there soon will be no fraternities to sponsor it.

The Council can prove its worth by so doing.

GERMANY'S NAZI NO. 2

The number one has suddenly become of no greater importance than the number two, exemplified in Germany by Hermann Goring, a Nazi, of stocky build and piercing determination. As Germany's most-tilted official, Goring is the most logical successor to the position now held by Adolf Hitler.

Among his duties are those of Aviation Minister, Prime Minister of Prussia, President of the Reichstag, Chief of Police, and Chief German Hunter. The first of these gives him the power of direction over the 2,600 all-metal pursuit planes and tri-motored bombers, considered the "Reich's deadliest weapon." In addition, he is dictator of raw materials, "controls the German waistline, now being shrunk with meat and butter restrictions."

As a member of the triumvirate governing "die Deutschland," Goring is equally as important as Hitler himself, although less publicized. Joseph Goebbels is the third party of the trio. Formerly recognized as the so-called power behind the throne, Goebbels has a minimum of executive potency in comparison to Goring. However, both are in line for the place now being filled by Hitler.

Last month Goring visited Mussolini in Rome, apparently attempting a Fascistic alliance between the two countries. It may well be noted that the only difference in the policies of the two most famous dictators lies in the color of their shirts—a very superficial tenet.

In view of the ailing condition of Der Fuhrer, we may observe with interest the progress of his heir apparent.

THE HONORARY RACKET

Declaring that "honorary societies are in many cases only mutual admiration groups," Dean J. A. Park of Ohio State University told the National Association of Deans recently that some college honorary societies are "rackets." "Students pay about $200,000 a year in initiation fees to about 300 honorary societies," he said.

Dean Park may be a bit vicious in calling them "rackets"—the college honorary societies are probably more like minor grafts. But they are undoubtedly grafts in many instances.

A glance at Baird's Manual indicates that every college student should be able to make at least one honorary in something. It may be military proficiency, or service, or activity in any of a dozen extra-curricular fields. Few of them have rigid requirements.

Fundamentally, it's just good business. The national officers adopt a quasi-alloof attitude until the prospective member feels that a bid is an honor; but the national officers snap like trout at liver at every initiation payment.

They all started because somebody had business initiative. And they continue because human vanity has little sales resistance. Everyone likes honor, and the feeling of quiet dignity that goes with a key.—The Michigan State News.

THIS WORD—TIGHT!

Many words in the English language have come to mean a number of things. Now, take this word, "tight":

—Back in the period of classical literature, it meant neat.

—a state of inebriation, also known as intoxication.

—reluctant to part with one's money, scotch.

—one of a pair, worn by acrobats.

—a human condition during exciting moments, tense.

—compressed, squeezed together from either side.

—a spot, which places the responsibility for the "next move" upon an indicated individual or party.

—an editorial nemesis which means that the business manager has the paper jammed with ads. It means that things you meant to run aren't printed because they won't fit "open" spots; and things you hadn't meant to run are printed because they fit. (That's how this got in.) — The University of Washington Daily.

In the Post Office—"Oh, look, a Valentine! Gosh, I'm touched!"

At a bull-session—"You can come in, honey. We're all through talking about you!"

In Patterson Hall—"He sent me a comic Valentine, but I know he loves me. He's just bashful!"

Over a coke—"Ah, c'mon, give me a kiss, babe. Your boy friend won't care. He's kissing the gal I came with!"

In the Browning Room—"He's such a subtle guy I know that this Valentine must mean something, but all I can get from it is that roses are red and violets are blue and he loves me!"

In White hall—"I was afraid, at first, that I had hurt his feelings, but I might have known that after any guy gets through running around with that gal, he hasn't any feelings left!"

In the Kernel office—"Boy, has she got technique! She's so good that she has three fraternity brothers thinking that the other two are just good friends of hers!"

DON'T LOOK NOW, BUT—you're NOT my Valentine!

This Campus
and
That World

By RALPH E. JOHNSON

ONE OF LIFE'S greatest mysteries is referred to in the Bible in the Tower of Babel story. It was an attempt by early people to explain how the tongues of different nations varied. While I have never heard it said, it appears that the word "babble" as we have it today must have come from the Biblical "Babel."

Only the relative speed with which this vast continent of ours was settled prevented this land from the fate of "Babel," and even then there must have been the hand of fate in the background, for certainly the Germans had a firm hold on sections of this land, as did the French, Spanish and English. The same fate must have had fun when it ordained that this home of the free and brave should not be absorbed into the American Indian customs and—that the word of the English should be the word of the land.

And it is only the rapidly accelerating speed of the world that is preventing another "Tower of Babel" tragedy here in this almost too broad country of ours. Had our fates decreed that we should forever be hauled about in covered wagons over almost impassible trails, then the great barriers of the land would have been to it that the German, English, French and Spanish influences would have developed into a babble of tongues.

Language Barriers

Only the hardy would remain in the North to endure the rigors of the winters there and their tongue would have been strange to the easy going, less-hardy brothers of the South. To the immediate West there would have been another weird sounding people protected from the East by the Appalachian range. They in turn would have been hemmed in by rivers of the great Mississippi valley. A sort of plainman would have sprung up on the other side of the Father of Waters, only to be prevented from contacting his far western brothers by the strenuous climb over the Rockies. And lastly, in the seaside valley of California we would have had another and different speech. That that would have happened should be quite evident to all who have traveled at all; and who hasn't known persons from different sections of the country?

High and deep in the hills of old Kentucky there is a tribe of people of purest Anglo-Saxon blood and heritage. Theirs is a language that is reported to have withstood the test of time and is as ancient in many ways as Chaucer. To the rank "furriner" it is next impossible to understand them as they talk. Scholars have spent years in the study of that dialect. Comedians have made a bastard tongue of it for stage effects.

Similarly the Ozarks have produced a characteristic vocabulary, which in turn is readily adapted to comic stage.

Hill-Billy Talk

Not as popular today as the "hill-billy," but formerly more so, was the "down-east" talk from Maine, which was typed as "farmer" talk. The prairie boys of the wide-open West have been made fun of for their drawl. The Bostonians were always good for a laugh if for no other reason than the way they said "Harvard" with that broad drawn out "a." And don't forget dear old New York City with its "Toity-toity" street.

Using the formula for comedy, all comedy is based on incongruity. It will be noticed that these dialects and colloquisms are funny because they are different than those things you and I have been used to—differences in pronunciation, usage, emphasis.

The bluest theory as to the origin of languages that has been advanced today is the theory of imitation of sounds. That is logical, is it not? To prove it to yourself think of some words that sound like the object they represent. For instance, the rooster is known as cock—"cock-a-doodle-doo." The words gurg, gargle, bubble, burble, etc. are all words describing in articulate sound the natural sound they represent.

"Burp"—A Sound Word

Now think of words recently added to the vocabulary and see if you can't pick out some that will find their basis in sounds. Of course, most of the words added today are compounded from well established roots, pre-fixes, etc. But there are such words. How about "Burp"? And most of slang has its excuse for being in the imitation of sounds. Slang either imitates another word or words, such as gosh, for God; darn, for damn. Just because slang contributes new and good words to the language each year it has reason enough for being.

Which brings us right down to one of my sorest points—pronunciation!

Because of typographical limitations it will be rather difficult to illustrate just what I mean, but most of you will know. I favor a simplified sort of pronunciation wherein every syllable will receive as nearly equal emphasis as possible. The English attempt not to do this and such awful words as Gloucester, Worcester, Leicester result. The slick way they handle a word like secretary, or dictionary is proof that they are tongue lazy. The evident pride with which some persons use "either" or "neither" with its German pronunciation always makes me ill. It is such a display of something or other. Not only is the long "i" sound harsh, it is harder to say.

Long "A" More Pleasant

It sounds contradictory for me to turn right around and say "tomato" with a long "a," when so many to the credulous attractions. In short, I believe the campus gives the Alphagams a wink of approval.

The nightcap featured the Alpha Slugs and the music of Sigma Chi Johnny Burkhardt, captured on late notice when Dick Barrie's band encountered highway trouble. The Transylvania Park beaux cornered all the University's fascinating amazons who kept the moments from being anything but dull. Anger swept over the ASPs when the orchestra intoned the "Sweetheart of Sigma Chi." Under the circumstances it was musical stunner. Old timers can recall a similar situation at a Phi Delta dance when Johnny Hamp innocently started the Sigma Chi love call and immediately the footers were attacked by a wave of Phidels threatening the destruction of saxophones, brass, and heads. Needless to say, Hamp never passed the fifth measure of the ditty. However, the Alphagams chose to remedy their dilemma with impassiveness.

Acceptable music, a collection of keen gals, right size crowd, and much private glassware business, made for an excellent dance and gets this column's whack on the back.

Banner Banalities

Doss Reid, off on an excursion in Georgia, telegraphed Mamie Maddox (67c collect) to the effect, "Consider yourself proposed to." I understand someone will be peeved when she learns this. . . . Frowning, footloose Bill Tracy is having his feet steamed by Kappa Ruth Peak. . . . When Ralph Conington decides to relieve Jane Goodwin and return to the constant Lena Peak, he will discover, to his astonishment, that he no longer bats first in Lena's line-up. Mama and papa have gone, leaving KA Billy Deniston and friend Gamble Dick one apartment and a bottomless bin of ideas. . . . When Liz Black strode into the Domestic Relations class in the Law school, the entire male element rose and sincerely applauded. For 'tis written that not many women venture the elosters of the barristers. . . . As you assumed, Ken Raynor and Jane Godbout have been pinned for a month. We're happy to know the Long Island swain has finally tied his petulant affection. . . . Francis Woods and Virginia Eversole object to having their legs photographed in the library. The photographer does not object.

Satiric Valentine

Betty Bewley's Cleveland beau will be down for the Military Ball and will produce an insoluble problem named Bob Sweeney. . . . Sara Kinney received a Valentine predicting her being an old maid. PROVIDED you can endure two dances in one day Saturday's correct double dose, or trucking gave the campus goats plenty of reason for expression. The Alphagam tea swing stands as an example of a wholly tolerable sorority field day. Instead of the boy-girl ratio being 20-1, every gent on the swaground had the opportunity to victimize a girl for 15 steps without the usual menace of a troop of trailing, affectionate sophomores. The football stronghearts, fresh from the showers, were nice enough to stomp in, sweatshirts and all, and pay their rhythmic respects

The Naughty Seven

When the occasion of the June reunion for classes ending in 2 and 7 rolls around, the class of '07 will be well represented and found trying to retain their record of "high" established at the June reunion of '32, according to Howell "Doodles" Spears, Agricultural Experiment Station, Lexington, a life member of the Association and reunion secretary for the class.

At the reunion of the "Naughty Seven" in '32 there were 33 of the 71 living members of the class present. Only two of the class' members have been lost by death since graduation.

At the present writing, information has been received from 38 members relative to their attending the June reunion. Of these, 30 have written that they will attend or hope to attend. Thirty-three have not yet been heard from.

The whereabouts of three of the "Naughty Seven" are not known. They are Mrs. Fred Link, nee Josie McCown Alexander, Paris, Kentucky; Daniel J. Dodd, Caruthersville, Missouri; and Sadie S. Martin, Visalia, Kentucky. Any information, as to the change of address of these three, sent to "Doodles" Spears, or the Alumni Office will be greatly appreciated.

With such a favorable response from 38 of the 71 members it seems that the "Naughty Seven" is well on its way to establishing a new "high" in attendance at the coming June reunion.

A Letter

William Frank Lebus, Jr., '36, is attending the University of Heidelberg as a result of his having been appointed to the James H. Hamilton scholarship which affords a year's study in Heidelberg. Following are excerpts from letters to his relatives at Cynthiana, Kentucky.

"I am in the quaint old city of Heidelberg, a lovely city of about 80,000 inhabitants. Upon the evening of arrival the 550th Anniversary Feast began with the beautiful illumination of the castle and bridge. When I arrived at Heidelberg I was placed in the Studentheim. Everything is being done for our entertainment, including tea dances where delicious tea is served.

"My first Sunday I went to the old Heiligeist Church which is about 500 years old. It is cool here all Summer—you wear a sweater and coat.

"At the Olympics we saw Hitler. I should like to go to Berlin at another time when it is at its normal stage. Upon my return to Heidelberg, I took to my Bicycle and with a companion went to Karlsruhe, Freidrickschaven, Linden, and Oberammergau. We saw the costumes worn by the characters on the stage. The next stop was Munich, a beautiful city.

"In the vicinity of Munich we saw the castle of Ludwig II, King of Bavaria. It is located on top of a mountain which we had to climb pushing our bicycles. The furniture, paintings, etc., are there just as when Ludwig lived.

"I take my meals with a private family and it is really fine. Nearly every afternoon we take a walk to some point of interest. Frau Von Dalmitz and her two sons and myself. In the mountains is an open air theatre where plays are given.

"One day we visited the prison which prior to 1914 was used to punish students. The university had its own court. Bismark's son spent quite a time there.

"School work really began November 1. As you probably know the students do not recite. A professor barges in to the class room when the bell rings and the students beat the desks with their fists to give him a hearty welcome; then he enters right on the subject and speaks for 45 minutes and then barge out."

Mr. Lebus' address is 53 Bergstrasse, Heidelberg, Germany.

By J. B. FAULCONER

SEVEN YEARS AGO, Adolph Rupp came to Lexington as head basketball coach of the University. Since that time Coach Rupp has established himself as one of the most outstanding coaches of the United States. His teams up to date have won 113 games, while losing only 22. The quintets, able to accomplish this feat, are: Tennessee, three times; New York U., twice; Creighton, twice; Michigan State, twice; Notre Dame, twice; Vanderbilt, twice; South Carolina; Ohio State; North Carolina; Clemson; Georgia; Tulane; Alabama; Florida; and Maryland.

Under Mr. Rupp many outstanding players have been developed. Probably the standout of the group is Leroy Edwards, the sophomore center, who single-handedly defeated many opponents. This first year varsity man was placed on the 1934-35 All-American five and on the All-Southern quint. Against Creighton, Edwards scored 34 points in 34 minutes to establish a record for high scoring honors in a major basketball game. It was regrettable that Big Ed did not complete his college career.

Demisey, All-American; Sale, All-American for two seasons; Bronston, Spicer, Yates, Davis, Johnson, and Lawrence are players who have put the University in the national basketball spotlight.

The Ruppmen have won one Southeastern Conference tournament and were finalists in one Southern loop tournament.

This year, the Blue and White basketball team has played good ball and have experienced some tough breaks. Michigan State nosed out the 'Cats, at East Lansing, by one point. Alabama won by three markers and Tennessee by two over the Wildcats.

Coach Rupp ends his seventh Kentucky campaign this year. A Phog Allen coached pupil, mentor Rupp has made the State of Kentucky basketball conscious.

The Wildcat gridders held their first session of spring football practice Thursday afternoon. This first practice was brief and devoted mainly to fundamentals. Coach Chet Wynne said that sessions would be held daily for the next six weeks.

Notable absentees were: the graduates—Gene Meyers, Bert Johnson, Stanley Newers, Lexie Potter, Bob Frichard, Joe Huddleston, and Joe Orr. Also Bob Davis, Walter Hodge, Joe Hagan, and "Cab" Curtis were missing because of their basketball capacities.

Decisive victories over Auburn, Vanderbilt, and Sewanee enabled Georgia Tech's lanky quintet to take a commanding lead in the Southeastern basketball conference. With less than two weeks from the Big 13 tournament Georgia Tech is the only undefeated team, having won seven games.

Tennessee, last year's tournament champs, went into a tie for second place with Mississippi by virtue of wins over Alabama and Kentucky. Mississippi State dropped to fourth place after losing to Mississippi and an upset game to Tulane.

Kentucky dropped two close games to conference foes. Coach Hank Crisp's Alabama Red Elephants toppled the 'Cats for their first victory over the Rupp-coached five. The charges of Adolph Rupp then journeyed to Tennessee where the Volunteers came from behind in the last minute to nose them out. These losses put the University cagers at the bottom of the eight teams which will be invited to the conference tournament. One more loss would probably ruin the chances of the Wildcats to play in this tourney. This week Vanderbilt comes here to engage the 'Cats in Kentucky's last conference engagement.

Six teams appear likely to get the first invitations; these quintets are: Georgia Tech, Mississippi, Tennessee, Mississippi State, Auburn, and Georgia. Kentucky and Louisiana State, the other teams .500 ball or better, are on the border line.

for you

... a picture of Chesterfield tobacco just as it comes out of the 1000-pound wooden hogsheads after ageing for three years.

If you could be there when these hundreds of hogsheads are opened up
... if you could see this mild ripe tobacco, prime and ready to be made into Chesterfield Cigarettes ... see the golden color of the leaf ... and get a whiff of that delightful aroma ... you'd say ...

"Delicious... makes me think of fruit cake."

Mild, ripe home-grown and aromatic Turkish tobaccos... aged three years ... make Chesterfield an outstanding cigarette ... give them a more pleasing taste and aroma.
